

RAG Practice PDF

Retrieval Augmented Generation (RAG) is an AI architecture that combines retrieval systems with large language models. AWS Bedrock provides managed foundation models for building generative AI applications. LangChain helps developers build AI-powered applications using tools, chains, agents, and memory. FAISS is commonly used as a vector database for semantic search. Streamlit can be used to create local AI chatbot interfaces quickly.